READINGS for SUNDAY, June 9th
(10th SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME)

1st Reading - Genesis 3.8 - 15

2nd Reading - 2 Corinthians 4.13 - 5.1

Gospel - Mark 3.20 - 35

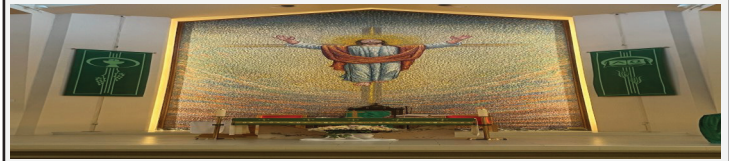

SATAN IS FINISHED!

Man, seduced by the devil, finds himself lost and troubled. He hides; from God who seeks him and replies: "I was afraid". In the Gospel, Jesus' opponents accuse him of complicity with the devil, discrediting his work. In reality, it is Jesus himself that brings about the definitive triumph against the kingdom of Satan, and decrees its end: every temptation is won by the one who overcomes every temptation! Jesus accuses those of blaspheming against the Holy Spirit deliberately attributing his work to the devil. The risk that they run is to stubbornly refuse to undertake a path of conversion with a hardening of the heart that can lead to final impenitence. Jesus with his redemption stands in clear antithesis with those who are murderers and enemies from the beginning of man. Christ is the "strongest", because he was sent with authority from the Father. Whoever welcomes the message of the Gospel overcomes every deviation and thus becomes for Jesus «brother, sister and mother", with the promise to live forever next to him in glory.

SATANA È FINITO!

L'uomo, sedotto dal diavolo, si ritrova smarrito e turbato. Si nasconde; a Dio che lo cerca risponde: «Ho avuto paura». Nel Vangelo gli avversari di Gesù lo accusano di complicità col demonio, gettando discredito sul suo operato. La realtà è che proprio Gesù riporta il definitivo trionfo contro il regno di Satana, e ne decreta la fine: ogni tentazione è vinta da colui che ha vinto ogni tentazione! Gesù accusa di bestemmiare contro lo Spirito Santo coloro che attribuiscono deliberatamente la sua opera al demonio. Il rischio che corrono è di rifiutare con ostinazione di intraprendere un cammino di conversione con un indurimento del cuore che può sfociare nell'impenitenza finale. Gesù con la sua redenzione si pone in netta antitesi con chi dall'inizio è omicida e nemico dell'uomo. Cristo è il «più forte», perché mandato dal Padre con autorità. Chi accoglie il messaggio del Vangelo supera ogni sbandamento e diviene così per Gesù «fratello, sorella e madre», con la promessa di vivere per sempre accanto a lui nella gloria.
